Name	What I did after Leaving Homefield Preparatory School	What I am doing now
Iain Wakefield	I won a scholarship to KCS where I was deputy Head Boy and Captain of Badminton (Surrey Schools' Champions 1971-72). I then qualified in medicine at the Westminster Medical School. After working in the NHS, I practiced in Guernsey then Brisbane and then moved to an academic post in the University of Auckland, New Zealand.	I am now semi-retired on the outskirts of Auckland with a lifestyle block (small farm) to keep me busy. I was District Governor for Rotary International District 9920 in 2014-15 covering a district containing eight countries in an area only just smaller than Africa.
